

How to Track Your Teen Driver

WEB EXCLUSIVE

By Stephanie Schaerr

Newsweek

Updated: 12:44 p.m. ET May 17, 2007

May 17, 2007 - You've probably seen those HOW'S MY DRIVING decals on trucks, giving a number to call if the semi in front of you is weaving all over the highway. Now you can slap a similar sticker on your teenager's car. For a yearly fee (about $50) reportmyteen.com or tell-my-mom.com will send you a sticker and e-mail you when a driver tattle-tales on your kid's wobbly progress on the road.

If that seems too Orwellian, for $8.95 rookiedriver.net will send you a magnet or sticker that pegs your teen as a newbie behind the wheel. If Johnny tries to peel it off, remind him that car crashes are the leading cause of teen deaths in the U.S.

URL: <http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/18592577/site/newsweek/from/ET/>

MSN Privacy . Legal

© 2007 MSNBC.com